Khopra Danda Trek Overview

Khopra Danda Trek is the new, less explored, off-the-beaten-trekking route in Annapurna region of Nepal. This trek also has alternative names like Kopra Ridge and Khayer Lake trekking etc.

This is the perfect scenic trek to avoid the crowded part of the Annapurna region. On this trek, you will have the peaceful memories on the less explored trails. Within a short duration, this trek lets you enjoy the beautiful untouched nature. And the chance to observe real Nepali lifestyles (their culture, art of living and religion).

This trek is suitable for all trekkers from beginners to experienced. Most parts of the trails are strenuous while some parts are easy. The path goes through a deeply lush pine, oak, rhododendron, and bamboo forest.

You will get to witness gorgeous vistas of snowy Himalayas. And cross beautiful Magar, Gurung, Kami, Brahmin villages with its beautiful terraced farming lands.

Moreover, in Khopra Danda Trek, you will take an adventurous hike up to Khayer Lake at 4600m. This is the highest point with most spectacular and picturesque views of mountain peaks and landscapes.

The best time to take this Khopra Danda Trek is March, April, May and September, October, November. However, you can still trek during other months which offers more peace and solitude with nature.

Overall, Khopra Danda trek is one of the great and short treks that Nepal has to offer. For further details, please feel free to contact us.

Khopra Danda Trek 9 Days Trekking Itinerary and Route

9-Day Khopra Danda Trek is an amazing adventure in the Annapurna region. Our journey begins with your arrival in Kathmandu, followed by a scenic flight to Pokhara. From Pokhara, we drive to Nayapul and trek to Tikhedhunga amid giant bamboo forests and beautiful waterfalls. On the third day, we hike to Ghorepani crossing Ulleri village and rhododendron forests.

The fourth day takes us to Upper Chistibung after walking through alpine meadows. On our fifth day, we ascend further towards Khopra Danda Ridge, which presents some awesome views of Annapurna South and the Dhaulagiri Range. We spend a rest day at Khopra Danda today enjoying an optional hike that takes us to the sacred Khayer Lake located at an elevation of 4660m surrounded by pristine natural beauty.”

On the seventh day, we descend to Tatopani, and you’ll want to spend some time in the hot springs here. After a drive back to Pokhara on day eight, you’ll return to Kathmandu on day nine. Along the way, you’ll go through Birethanti, Ulleri and the Kali Gandaki Valley, so this trek really is a great mix of adventure, culture and nature.

What’s Most Exciting About Khopra Danda Trekking

or Khopra Ridge Trek?

Khopra Ridge, also known as Khopra Danda, is one of those places that will leave you in awe after your visit. It arguably has the best panoramic view of the Himalayas in the whole Annapurna region. On this trek, you'll be able to see Mount Dhaulagiri (8167m), Annapurna I, II, III, South; Machhapuchhre (Fishtail), Hiunchuli, Nilgiri, and Lamjung Himal. What makes this trek special is also the fact that it's less crowded than other classic treks around the region.

The highlight of this trek is hiking to a sacred lake, Khayer Lake, located at an elevation of 4660m. The serene alpine lake holds great religious significance for Hindus as well as Buddhists. Devotees believe that taking a dip in the holy water washes away sins and illnesses; hence, every year, hundreds of devotees going on pilgrimage come to visit this awesome place. There lies a small temple dedicated to the god Khayer Barahi right next to the lake, which is surrounded by pilgrims during festival time, adding more cultural flavor to your travel spot.

Viewing opportunities are not limited to mountains only. If you're lucky enough, you can also get a glimpse of some of Nepal's most amazing wildlife, such as Himalayan Thar or Danphe (which happens to be Nepal's national bird), when walking through rhododendron forest or maybe even spot one of them while passing alpine meadows and beautiful remote villages. The wildlife and nature combined with spirituality and the biggest cultural highlights along the way make this trip so much more special.

Itinerary

This 9-day Khopra Danda Trek itinerary is designed for those who want to take the off the beaten adventure in the Annapurna region. Created by local expert guides, keeping all the useful information included the trek takes us through lush rhododendron forests, off-the-beaten-path villages inhabited by Gurung and Magar communities, and incredible viewpoints like Khopra Ridge. Additionally, we see the panoramic view of the Annapurna and Dhaulagiri ranges. This itinerary also ensures that even the route is suitable for both novice trekker and a seasoned hiker.

Day 03: Trek to Ghorepani

Many people consider today's trek from Tikhedhunga to Ghorepani to be the most challenging part of the trek.

After a pleasant breakfast, you will start the trek and very shortly you will see a vast suspension bridge. And a sign that states the time to reach Ghorepani.

Along the trail, you will see many horses and the picturesque scenery of the mountains and settlements. The intimidating part of the trek is that you have to climb more than 3500 stairs.

You will cross the village of Ulleri and you will gradually leave the corn fields. On way, you will see good views of Machhapuchhre( 6996m) and Hiunchuli (6441m).

The trail is quite easy passing through Rhododendron and shadowy trees ascending gently up to the final checkpoint at Ghorepani village.

Overnight at Ghorepani.

Please read our detailed trip notes, which provide information on everything you'll need to know about this adventure.

Best Time For Khopra Danda Trek 9 Days Trekking

The best seasons for the Khopra Danda trek or any other trek in Nepal are spring (March to May) and autumn (September to November). During these months, the Annapurna trekking trails become adorned with blooming flowers under the clear blue sky. The temperatures are mild, making it easy for you to walk. In addition to that, you will have great views of mountains as well.

Autumn is slightly breezy but offers continuous sunny days and a chance to witness sparkling stars at night, which makes your trekking experience amazing.

While the trek is possible throughout the year, summer (June - August) and winter (December - February) are not recommended. The summer months are wet and slippery. In winter months, it is possible to go as well. Though it will be very cold, the views of Annapurna South and III, Hiunchuli, Machhapuchhre and Dhaulagiri ranges are very beautiful.

Every season has its charm, but moderate temperatures with moderate precipitation make spring (March) and autumn (September- November) best for visiting the Khopra Ridge route.

Khopra Danda Trek 9 Days Trekking Difficulty

The Khopra Danda trek is a moderately difficult trek of the Annapurna region, less difficult than the arduous Annapurna Circuit or ABC trek. Trekking above 2,500 meters (8,200 ft) has the danger of altitude sickness, so acclimatization is necessary.

Also, while trekking in the mountains, you can have common injuries like your leg slipping, causing strain or scratches, and knee/back pain due to uneven surfaces. Stomach-related issues - diarrhea if the body is not acclimatized with local food/water. Insomnia, loss of appetite, insect bites or simply allergies. It's always good to come prepared, and the risks are minimized if we take care of a few things like eating simple, easy-to-digest food and not overeating, especially meat at high altitudes. Before the trek, consult with a doctor if you've any specific illness/allergies - let us know, and we will be there for you.

Accommodations on the Khopra Danda Trek

On the Khopra Danda Trek, you'll find a mix of traditional teahouses and community-run lodges, which offer trekkers a one-of-a-kind cultural experience.

Tea houses are simple, family-run guest houses with shared or more private rooms but shared toilet facilities. There is usually a communal dining area around the fire where you can eat and hang out with guests from all over the world.

Along with teahouses, we will be staying in lodges that have been built by locals and are run by members of the community. The lodges are newly built and modern styled being bigger than traditional teahouses and still having shared toilet facilities. It has been mentioned in reviews that trekkers have had issues with booking rooms in advance at the Community Lodge for the Khopra Ridge trek, as they were overbooked on arrival. To help combat this issue, it is best to book the trip early.

Meals on the Khopra Danda Trek

During Khopra Danda Trek, meals are mostly provided at the teahouses or lodges along the trail. For breakfast, you can expect to have eggs (boiled, fried or omelet), bread, porridge, and a hot drink like tea or coffee. Lunch and dinner will be a typical Nepali meal—rice served with lentil soup (dal), pickles (achar), and curry. As well as a variety of other vegetarian and non-vegetarian dishes such as noodles, pasta, and soups are available. The teahouses serve refills of dal bhat, so you can eat as much as you want, which is certainly going to be needed for your trek ahead.

Vegetarian meals are readily available, and we recommend that everyone eats vegetarian on the trek for health reasons. Meat is also offered on the menus, but it's best to be careful, especially in regards to meat at higher elevations due to concerns over food safety/storage, etc. Each meal will also include a hot drink choice, including tea or coffee, which is included in your meal package cost). Additional beverages such as coke/ bottled water/beer can be purchased at your own expense.

The price of meals increases proportionably to altitude largely because it's expensive to ferry these supplies by porters/yaks up from lower villages/train heads, so expect higher prices for these items at higher altitudes compared to lower down.

Khopra Danda Trek 9 Days Trekking Trip Grade: Fitness Level, Medical, and Health

Fitness Level

Fitness to Trek Khopra Ridge viewpoint trek demands you to be in perfect health. The walk throughout is long, tiring and exhausting. If your body is in a frail condition, you might find it more torturous than enjoyment. So physical exercise preparation is highly suggestible. Regular exercise of running, jogging and other similar exercises should be continued at least a week before the start of the journey.

Medical Considerations

Knowing your body's limits is important to have a safe trek. If you are suffering from conditions like diabetes, asthma or any kind of pregnancy, you should consult your doctor before planning for this trek. It is a multi-day trek on rugged terrains, and it involves physical exertion, so it is better to get yourself tested; if you are not capable of such exertions, then do not go for this.

Health

Health is your first and primary aspect. Make sure that you are doing Khopra Trek in good health. Nutrition gives you energy, we will provide fresh and healthy foods in the trek for you. Recovery and performance are all about rest and sleep.

Special Training for Khopra Trek

Khopra Trek is moderately difficult, and no special training is required. However, a reasonable level of physical fitness is important. Doing core exercises and stamina-building exercises such as running, swimming, burpees, cycling and short hikes will give you an added advantage in this trek.

Travel Insurance

Travel Insurance is not compulsory for trekking to Khopra Ridge, but it is highly recommended. Specially, emergency evacuation via helicopter and medical assistance are very expensive in the mountains because of altitude and rough topography, so you need to be assured that you will protect yourself in case of a costly accident or illness abroad. Obtaining insurance will also cover you against theft, loss and cancellations.

Permits Requirements for Khopra Ridge Trekking

The permits you'll need to do the Khopra Danda trek are the Annapurna Conservation Area Permit (ACAP) and the Tim's Card or Trekkers' Information Management System. These permits help with keeping the region clean and beautiful as well as making sure everyone stays safe while they're trekking.

Permit Costs

- ACAP: NPR 3,000 per person for foreign nationals and NPR 1,000 for SAARC nationals.
- TIMS: NPR 2,000 per person for all trekkers.

Permits are checked en route at Nayapul, Ghandruk and Tadapani. The permit fees go towards the conservation of the trail, wildlife and development of local communities.
